Winstead insists that "God has touched his body" and therefore the child will recover as the result of prayer.

Wounds May Kill Wife Of Orchestra Leader; Assailant Admits Act

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 20.—(UP)—Mrs. Karl Krueger, wife of the conductor of the Kansas City Philharmonic orchestra and a member of the McCormick Harvester family, was shot and critically wounded by the estranged husband of a former servant intensely jealous of her attentions to his wife, police established today.

Charles E. McDonald sat blubbering in a police station, admitting that he shot Mrs. Krueger on Hollywood boulevard yesterday afternoon.

"Mrs. Krueger broke up my home," he said.

The musician Krueger kept an all night vigil in the corridor of the Good Samaritan hospital where Mrs. Krueger, after two blood

FLAMES SWEEP OVER RINGGOLD PIKE FARM LAND

Fifty acres of farm land, including a hay field, pasture and wheat field, were swept by a fire Friday afternoon along the Ringgold pike just east of Circleville.

The fire, believed started by a carelessly thrown cigarette, started in a hay field owned by George Metzger on the north side of the highway. The fire burned to the North and West of the old schoolhouse along the road. About half of the hay in the field, piled in windrows, was saved. The flames spread rapidly into nearby wheat stubble and a pasture field and into a woods north of the hay field.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise took the city's small truck to the fire. He was assisted by about 25 men who gathered when the fire started. The truck made two trips to a city hydrant to obtain water to fight the blaze.

ARMY TO SPEND MANY MILLIONS ON OHIO RIVER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(UP)—An appropriation for starting work on the proposed $4,000,000 flood wall at Portsmouth, O., will be included in the war department's budget estimate for the fiscal year 1940, Maj. Gen. Julian L. Schley, chief of army engineers, said today.

Responding to an inquiry from Senator Robert J. Bulkley (D., O.), Gen. Schley also disclosed that funds originally allocated as the government's share of protective works for the Cincinnati waterworks at California, O., have been revoked and transferred to another project.

The Cincinnati allocation was made under an authorization act of 1937, permitting the expenditure of $24,877,000 for walls and levees at danger spots along the Ohio river.

The city rejected the plan, which involved a local contribution, and the department's authority to use relief funds for such projects expired June 30. The balance of regular funds earmarked for the Cincinnati projects has been transferred to Ironton, O., Gen. Schley said. Cost of the Ironton project is estimated at $3,283,000.

SECURITY BOARD RAPS DAVEY FOR PENSION SETUP

Gross Mismanagement By Governor Assailed In Demand for Hearing

AIRING SET FOR AUG. 29

State Borrows Nearly Half Million To Assure Pay For Aged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(UP)—Accusing Governor Martin L. Davey's administration of gross mismanagement of the old age pension system, the Social Security board today ordered a hearing August 29 to determine whether federal aid shall be discontinued in Ohio.

The board said an investigation disclosed "a substantial failure" of the state Division of Aid for the Aged to comply with the requirements of the Social Security law. The national government matches state fund dollar for dollar in assisting the aged.

Loan Obtained for State Pensioners

COLUMBUS, Aug. 20.—(UP)—Reduction in the checks of Ohio's old age pension recipients was delayed at least another month here today when $415,000 was borrowed from the general revenue fund to meet a deficit.

The pensioners thus will receive their full monthly payment, averaging approximately $23 each, for August but a reduction of at least 10 percent appears imminent for September.

With the borrowing of $415,000 today the Division of Aid for the Aged now owes the general fund a total of $1,215,000.

Steadily falling receipts in the liquor monopoly receipts has resulted in the pension crisis. Receipts from liquor sale and taxes last year totaled $14,500,000, but are expected to fall under the $11,000,000 mark this year.

State Finance Director M. Ray Allison said yesterday a reduction of pension payments was unavoidable.

787 Countians Given $17,417 in July

In Pickaway county during July, 787 persons 65 years of age or over received $17,417 in old age assistance awards, the State Division of Aid for the Aged revealed Saturday.

The average award, based on the individual need of each recipient, in Pickaway county for the month was $22.13.

Under federal Social Security laws the federal government contributes 50 percent of the old age assistance program, while the state provides the remainder which it obtains from liquor profits.

Witness Jailed

ONCE an election captain for Tammany District Leader James J. Hines, now on trial in New York accused of conspiracy in connection with a huge policy racket, Julius Williams, a hulking, red-haired Negro, took the spotlight at Hines' trial when he repudiated a sworn statement linking Hines to a member of the Dutch Schultz policy syndicate. Williams was sent to jail when his bail was increased from $500 to $10,000.

HOPE FOR EARLY END OF SUDETEN TROUBLE FADING

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 20.—(UP)—Hope for early resumption of minority negotiations dwindled materially today. Not only did leaders of the Sudeten German minority party receive a coldly a government gesture of concession but there were plain signs of turbulent feeling in the provinces.

It was announced yesterday that the government would grant a number of important civil service posts to Sudeten (minority) Germans. The Sudeten leaders at a meeting last night agreed to accept the posts but not to express thanks for them or approval of getting them, on the ground that they were inadequate.

Ill feeling in the minority areas was shown when two members of the party of Viscount Runciman, British "adviser" in the minorities dispute, were greeted with Nazi salutes and a clamor of "heils" and catcalls when they made an unexpected visit to Bruex, whose population is predominantly German.

JAPS TURN DOWN YARNELL'S PLEA TO ASSIST SHIP

SHANGHAI, Aug. 20.—(UP)—Japanese naval authorities today refused formally the request of Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, American navy commander-in-chief in the Far East, for the United States gunboat Oahu to relieve the United States gunboat Monocacy at Kiukiang, Yangtze river.

Admiral Yarnell made the request about 10 days ago. He pointed out that there was a shortage of food and fuel at Kiukiang, where the Japanese are fighting their way up the river. Though there was almost a parade of Japanese warships and Japanese transports, some of them bearing civilians, up the river the Japanese authorities intimated at once that they were not prepared to grant Admiral Yarnell's request. They alleged that the river was "unsafe" and made a counter offer to fuel the Monocacy and provide its crew with food. This offer was declined. Today the Japanese confirmed their refusal.

ACE FLIES OVER NATION IN LESS THAN 11 HOURS

World - Famous Transport Reaches Goal After Surprise Takeoff

ONLY 100 AT LANDING

Mark Set Four Years Ago By Tommy Tomlinson Shattered

FLOYD BENNETT FIELD, New York, Aug. 20.—(UP)—Howard Hughes landed here at 7:56:50 a. m. today after a record-breaking flight from Los Angeles in his already famous round-the-world transport plane.

Hughes completed the trip in 10 hours, 32 minutes and 20 seconds, according to computations of his navigator. That was figured on the time the plane crossed Floyd Bennett field, the official method. He broke the former record of Tommy Tomlinson for cross-continent transport flights. Tomlinson made the trip in 11 hours and five minutes.

He took off from Los Angeles at 9:21 p. m. and reported by radio only twice—at Alton, Ill., and Pittsburgh. He was never sighted. Already, Hughes held the transcontinental record for speed planes—seven hours, 28 minutes and 25 seconds, which he set Jan. 19, 1937, averaging 532 miles an hour from Los Angeles to Newark airport.

Flight Unhindered
Flying at an altitude of 500 feet as he crossed the airport administration building, Hughes turned the plane into a wide circle and brought it down into a 12-mile north wind. He taxied up the runway and came to a stop in front of 100 spectators, mostly airport attendants and newspapermen, the only ones who knew that he was coming. His take-off from Los Angeles had been under mysterious circumstances with no announcement of his intentions.

Hughes was asked at what altitude he flew and said that he flew at "various altitudes."

"We operated at altitudes which depended on the weight of the plane," Hughes said. "When we started the plane was pretty heavily loaded and we didn't make any attempt to shoot into the high altitudes then. As we burned up the gas we continued to go on up but we didn't go nearly as high as I had expected. We didn't go any higher than 20,000 feet. We averaged about 17,000 feet for the entire flight."

Hughes said that he used a Lovelace oxygen mask which, he explained, differs from other oxygen contrivances in that the air and oxygen are mixed before the user of the mask inhales. "The masks," he said, "feed you the raw oxygen." He said the mixture of the Lovelace mask eliminates the possibility of the throat becoming sore as it sometimes does when the raw oxygen is used.

"With this mask," Hughes said, "the air and oxygen are mixed before you breathe it. It is worked on a different principle than any other mask."

Asked to describe the mask he used, Hughes said: "It is made of a sponge rubber composition and has a sort of a bladder on it that vibrates as you breathe in and out."

TIGER GRIDDERS CALLED FOR FIRST PRACTICE NEXT TUESDAY AT 9:30

BLACK TO GET FIRST LOOK AT 1938 MATERIAL

Tackle And Center Berths To Provide Problems; Kicker Needed

Tiger Coach Roy Black will get the first look at the athletes with whom he will have to work this fall when they report for first practice of the season next Tuesday at 9:30 a. m. All youths who hope to play football for Circleville high school this season are urged to be present because each practice will be important.

The season opens Sept. 16 under the lights of the local field with West Jefferson as the Tiger opponent.

The Tiger squad will have numerous lettermen back for this season's work, several of them regulars on the 1937 team. Included among the letter winners are Co-Captains Gene Arledge and Johnny Noggle, Art Rooney, Paul Walters, Clark Martin, Tom Hardin, Bill Heffner, Don Jackson, Marvin Jenkins, Frank Woodward, Russ Liston, Dub Nelson, Bub Hays and Bob Owens. Others reporting for duty will be Harold Hill, a lineman and brother of Gaines Hill, who did a lot of football playing a few years ago for the Tigers; Chuck Zaenglein, a good end candidate; Jack Mogan, Hart, Moon, Shea, Clifton, Bob Brown, Tye Davis, and a crew of freshmen outstanding of which appear to be Johnny Sabine, Don Valentine, Clifford Kerns, and Richard Binkley.

Two Ends Gone

Coach Black will be faced with the problem of developing varsity ends to replace Dave Jackson and Bob Fickard, a tackle to take the place of Bob Liston, a center to fill the shoes of Junior Martin and Bob Bowsher, who is now in the hospital after an operation. Among end candidates will be Heffner, Don Jackson, Zaenglein and Owens. Rooney should be able to grab off one tackle post but the other is in doubt. Nelson may qualify for the job, although he may get a fling at the snapper-back place. Co-Captain Gene Arledge may be moved out to tackle since there is a wealth of guard material and a dearth of big enough youths to fill the tackle spots.

Most outstanding guard candidates are Harden and Martin although Brown and several others saw enough service last year to know what it is all about.

The backfield should not be so difficult if a capable kicker can be found. Noggle, Walters, Woodward and Jenkins might be the starters although there are several other aspirants capable of breaking in.

The Tiger mentor has not disclosed what kind of an offensive program he will use, confining his predictions to "we'll have plenty of speed."

APOSTLES KEEP ON WAY TOWARD HONORS IN A. A.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 20—(UP)—Hopes that St. Paul would falter on its last long road trip of the season faded today and other American Association clubs virtually abandoned hope of overtaking the pace-setting Apostles.

St. Paul continued to play championship caliber ball last night as it stretched its lead to six full games by downing Indianapolis 6 to 1.

Art Herring, diminutive right-hander, hung up his 14th victory of the season as he limited the Indians to five hits. Meanwhile his mates pounded out nine safeties off three Indianapolis hurlers. Included in the Saints barrage were two home runs by Bob Boken and another by Ollie Beljma.

St. Paul moved into Louisville today for its final stop of the eastern invasion. The Saints have 27 games remaining to play and 18 of them will be on their home lot.

Kansas City moved back into second place in the standing when it downed Toledo 7 to 2. Walter Pudnich, brilliant young outfielder, paced the Blues 13 hit attack with a home run and a double.

The Columbus Red Birds had a six game winning streak snapped when they were beaten 5 to 3 by Milwaukee.

The lowly Louisville Colonels shoved Minneapolis into the second division by grabbing a 4 to 2 decision.

Captain John Smith, one of the founders of Jamestown colony in Virginia, gave New England its name.

BUDGE TO MEET SIDNEY WOOD IN CASINO FINALS

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20—(UP)—Don Budge, gunning for his third straight leg on the Newport Casino trophy, today meets Sidney B. Wood, Jr., who was a leading player when the red haired Californian wore knee pants.

Budge was favored to make it three straight although Wood, making a comeback, was expected to give him a hard fight.

Budge reached the final yesterday with a 6-3, 6-1, 6-3 victory over Frankie Parker of Beverly Hills, Cal., while Wood upset high-favored Joe Hunt of Los Angeles, 6-2, 3-6, 5-7, 6-3, 6-1.

Don also reached the doubles final along with Gene Mako. They scored a 15-13, 6-4, 7-5 victory over Wayne Sabn and Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore. Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, former American and all-England champions, were leading Wood and Hunt 13-15, 6-3, 6-2 when darkness halted play.

SPORTSMAN'S CONVENTION TO ATTRACT BIG CROWD

ST. MARYS, O., Aug. 20.—Despite the vast number of reservations which are pouring into the housing committee for the League of Ohio Sportsman Convention, which will be held here from August 26 to 28, there is going to be plenty of accommodations for everybody, according to Foster P. Derlam, chairman of the committee.

Banquet reservations have increased since it was announced by Ralph Sanborn, league President in Columbus that Charles Sawyer and John Bricker, candidates for governor, would attend the banquet and speak to the assembled sportsmen. The banquet will be held at Gordon Park, on Lake St. Marys, Saturday evening, Aug. 27.

Arrangements have been completed for a loud speaker hook-up to broadcast the speeches made by the gubernatorial candidates to those who will be unable to attend the banquet, due to the restricted facilities of the banquet hall which can take care of approximately 2,000 people.

DIZZY HURLS AGAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 20—(UP)—Dizzy Dean pitches today against the Pittsburgh Pirates. His arm, still an unknown quantity, his record so far is six wins, no defeats. The Cubs are eight games behind the league leading Pirates.

YESTERDAY'S HERO—Hank Greenberg, who hit three homers to raise his total to 40 for the season and jump 11 games ahead of Babe Ruth's record schedule of 1927.

Greenberg Uses 109 Games For 41 Homers; Babe Needed 120

CHICAGO, Aug. 20—(UP)—Hank Greenberg's home run bat is hot again and Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in one season—one of the greatest marks on the books — today is once more in jeopardy.

Greenberg hit three circuit clouts yesterday in a double-header against the St. Louis Browns to raise his season's total to 41.

Only a few days ago when Hank was in Chicago with the Tigers he was disconsolate over his home run slump and had about given up on his chances of breaking Ruth's record. He smashed 15 homers during July and at one time was 18 days ahead of the Babe's 1927 record schedule. But he went into a slump and until he banged out a trio of round trip wallops yesterday he had connected for only one homer this month.

"I can't explain my slump," Greenberg said at that time. "When I try to pull the ball to the left I don't get a good piece of it. Most of my power seems to prevail when I hit to center and right and that handicaps my chances of breaking Ruth's home run record. I guess I'll just have to be content with singles."

Wrists Powerful

Greenberg is a right-handed hitter with long arms. He has tremendous wrist power. There has been considerable discussion about whether he guesses with the pitcher. Once the experts credited Del Baker, now Detroit manager who is adept at stealing signals, with much of Greenberg's success by flashing him what pitches were coming.

Greenberg laughs at these assertions and points out that some of the greatest days he ever had at bat were when Baker was absent from the team because of illness.

Greenberg drove in eight runs with his three homers. He hit his first with three men on in the third, his second with the bases empty in the ninth and his third with two on in the first inning of the nightcap. The Tigers won both games from the Browns, 8-7 and 7-4.

In getting his 41 homers Greenberg has used up only 109 games. Ruth took 120 games to get his 41st in 1927. Hank has 49 games in which to hit the 20 necessary to smash the Bambino's mark.

The New York Yankees continued their drive toward the American league pennant by defeating the Athletics, 5-2, and extended their lead to 10 games. Spud Chandler pitched a six-hitter and Lou Gehrig hit homer No. 23.

Indians Lose Again

Cleveland lost its third straight when Lefty Lee pitched the White Sox to a 7-2 victory over the slumping Indians. Bobby Doerr's single drove in the winning run. Jimmy Foxx hit homer No. 33.

The New York Giants reduced Pittsburgh's National league lead to four and one-half games by defeating the Phillies, 4-2. Bill Lehrman allowed the Phils only four hits. Jimmy Ripple hit a

Grissom, Davis to Hurl For Reds in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 20—(UP)—The Cincinnati Reds moved in here today for a crucial series with the St. Louis Cardinals that may eventually determine where they finish in the bitter National league pennant chase.

The Reds tangle with the Cards five times in three days. The series opened with a double-header today, another twin bill is scheduled tomorrow and a single game Monday.

Lee Grissom, the burly southpaw who has shown steady improvement of late, and the unpredictable Ray (Peaches) Davis are to hurl today's contests for the Reds. Lou Warneke, ace of the Cardinals staff, and Clyde Shoun were slated to do the mound work for St. Louis.

The Reds are ambitious to conclude their current road trip by climbing into second place in the standing and they may do it if they can win the series here. At present Cincinnati trails the second place New York Giants by two full games.

ROGELL CLOSE TO RECORD FOR BASES ON BALLS

DETROIT, Aug. 20—(UP)—Billey Rogell of the Detroit Tigers today held what was believed to be a major league record for consecutive bases on balls. Playing against the Browns yesterday, Rogell drew his seventh straight pass in the opening inning. It was issued by Oral Hildebrand. He got a walk against Chicago in his last appearance at bat on Wednesday and drew five more on Thursday.

The record books list Jimmy Foxx of Boston's Red Sox, with six walks in a single game last year against St. Louis, and Walter Wilmot of Chicago with six in 1891.

home with one on and Harry Danning got one with none on.

In a night game the Dodgers downed the Boston Bees, 1-0, in 11 innings. The game left the teams tied for fifth place in the National league. Cookie Lavagetto's single with two out in the last inning drove home the only run of the game and ended Pitcher Lou Fette's winning streak at eight games.

AMBERS PRAISED DESPITE LOSS

HERKIMER, N. Y., Aug. 20—(UP)—Lou Ambers, who lost his lightweight crown to Henry Armstrong in Madison Square garden Wednesday night, was welcomed home today by his neighbors, who shouted, "He's still our champion!"

Several thousand persons greeted him when he arrived in Utica last night. He was lifted to the shoulders of admirers, carried outside the station and placed on top of an automobile for a speech.

"I tried hard," he said. "I have another match with Armstrong in a month or two when his lips heal. Next time I'll bring the title back with me. It was the toughest battle I ever had, but I'm confident that I can win when we meet again."

Ambers was accompanied by the Rev. Gustava Purificator, in whose church basement he learned to fight.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—(UP)—Henry (Three Crown) Armstrong won't return to his California home for several days. He had planned to leave here last night but doctors feared an infection might develop in the lip gash he suffered in winning the lightweight title Wednesday night from Lou Ambers.

Promoter Mike Jacobs, it was said, has opened negotiations for a fight between Pedro Montanez of Puerto Rico and Ambers, with the winner to meet Armstrong for the light weight title later in the year.

Ambers left for Utica, N. Y. yesterday. After a welcoming celebration there, he will go to his home in Herkimer, and then to Quebec for some fishing.

ADMIRAL FACES ESPOSA AGAIN AT SARATOGA

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 20—(UP)—The great War Admiral was favored to score his third straight victory of the Saratoga meeting today in the mile and a quarter $5,000 Whitney stakes.

Only four other horses—Esposa, Fighting Fox, Isolator and Great Union—were entered.

War Admiral, ridden by Jockey Wayne Wright, will carry top weight of 126 pounds, and was expected to start a 2-5 favorite.

Fighting Fox and Isolator, running as an entry, were not expected to be more than 8-1 while Esposa, a mare, probably will be 3-1. Esposa finished second to the Admiral in his last two victories here.

PRESBYTERIAN RITES TO BE HELD IN REDECORATED AUDITORIUM

Attendance To Be Huge At Services

Mount Of Praise Service To Begin Sunday At 6:30 A. M.

The newly redecorated auditorium of First Presbyterian church will be opened for the worship services Sunday morning.

The plan of redecoration carries out a scheme of ivory ceiling and rose-tan walls. The floor has been revarnished, chandeliers retinted, lights have been improved and the oak paneling and art windows renovated. Members of the congregation will notice the improvements have made the auditorium lighter and added quality to its beauty.

The redecoration has been under the direction of Bryant & Sons, interior decorators, Columbus. Members of the church committee in charge of the work were J. O. Eagleson, chairman, from the board of trustees, O. D. Mader, Miss Florence Dunton, Miss Bertha Bowers, Theodore Steele, Mrs. A. J. Lyle, Mrs. W. W. Robinson and Dr. F. C. Schaeffer. Mr. Eagleson supervised the work from day to day.

Trustees of the church are John S. Ritt, Clark Will, Lemuel Weldon, Turney Glick, George P. Foresman, and Mr. Eagleson. The board of trustees has supervised the entire project.

A large attendance is expected at the worship service Sunday morning. The pastor, the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, will speak on the theme "Parish Helpers," a subject appropriate to the occasion. The choir will sing for the first time since the vacation season. Mrs. Clark Will, choir director, will sing a solo, "Come Ye Unto The Mountains of the Lord," by Sprouss. Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, organist, will play "Prelude in D," by Yon, "Nocturne" by Stoughton, and "Postlude" by Mutter.

Next Sunday the Rev. T. B. Kelsey, father of the local pastor, plans to be present and deliver the morning sermon. Later plans include a service which will rededicate the church with visiting clergymen of the surrounding community taking part.

REV. WILLIAM KUHEN, JR., TO TALK AT C. E. SERVICE

The Rev. William Kuhlen, Jr., son of the Rev. and Mrs. William Kuhlen of Chillicothe, formerly of Circleville, will speak at the Christian Endeavor society meeting and give an address at the evening service in the First United Brethren church Sunday.

He will tell of his experience and impressions of his trip to Palestine and Syria last winter. The Rev. Mr. Kuhlen was graduated from Asbury college in 1937 and is planning to enter Princeton Theological seminary in October.

The Rev. H. E. Scheely, a former pastor of the Reformed church of Stoutsville, will deliver the sermon at the union twilight service in the tabernacle on the campgrounds at Stoutsville Sunday.

Relation of Temperance to Character

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Aug. 21 is I Samuel 1:1-2:10, especially I Samuel 1:9-18; 2:1-5, the Golden Text being Proverbs 31:28, "Her children rise up and call her blessed.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
WHETHER Hannah shared Elkanah's sin by becoming the second wife in his unhappy family we are not told. This may have been part of the sorrow with which her soul was troubled.

A Prayer for Motherhood
However that may be, Hannah went up with her husband to the house of the Lord in Shiloh in great bitterness of soul because she was childless while the other wife in the family had children: "And she was in bitterness of soul, and prayed unto the Lord and wept sore. And she vowed a vow, and said, O Lord of hosts if thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of thine handmaid, and remember me, and not forget thine handmaid, but wilt give unto thine handmaid a man child, then will I give him unto the Lord all the days of his life." Here is a fervent prayer for motherhood as God's crowning glory for womanhood. Here, too, is a fine example of prenatal influence of a mother in shaping the character of her unborn child. And if we want to know how God prepared Samuel to become next to Moses in greatness among all Old Testament characters, let us give the credit under God, to Samuel's godly mother, as in the case of Joseph, mother of Moses. Both mingled a mother's prayer with a mother's milk in the making of the manhood God used so wonderfully in their sons. Both are the inspiration and encouragement of innumerable hosts of obscure mothers who serve God and country vicariously through their more illustrious sons and daughters.

mothers through the ages have shaped their children's destinies for time and eternity in the laboratory of their own devotion and ideals. Hannah saw her son but once a year when they came up to the house of the Lord for the yearly sacrifice. "Samuel ministered before the Lord, being a child, girded with a linen ephod. Hannah: Godly Motherhood

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

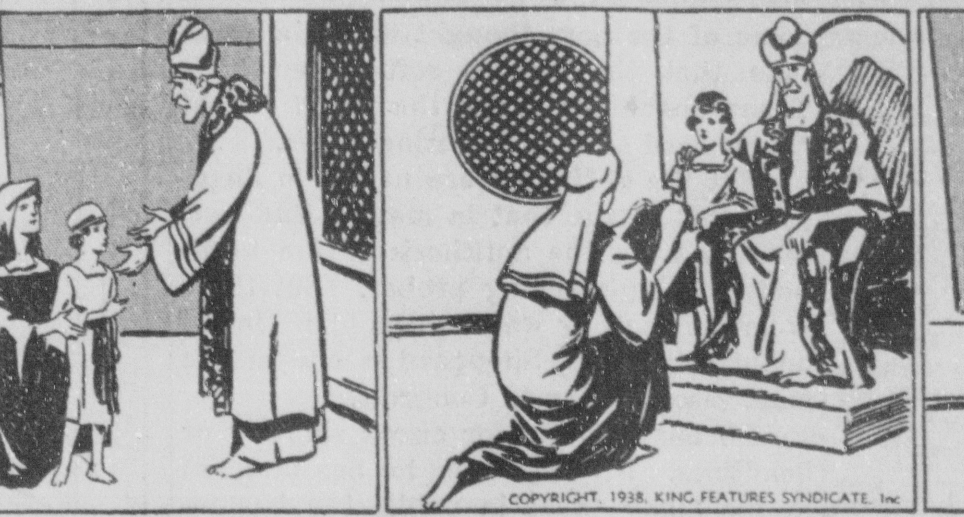

Scripture—I Samuel 1:1-2:10.

Hannah was the wife of Elkanah and went up with him each year to worship in God's house. Here she prayed earnestly for a son. Eli, the priest, saw her lips moving and thought she was drunk.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—I Samuel 1:1-2:10.

God gave her a son whom she named Samuel, meaning "Asked of God." Upon weaning Samuel Hannah brought him to Eli to be his minister to serve in God's house.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—I Samuel 1:1-2:10.

Once each year Hannah came to see Samuel, bringing a little coat which she had made in great love wondering each time if it would fit her growing son.

Samuel became a great good man and became Eli's successor. He was always a credit to his mother whose prayers were answered in his birth. (GOLDEN TEXT—Proverbs 31:28.)

THE SEVEN POINTS

THE seven points which Secretary Cordell Hull enumerated in his radio address are noteworthy not only in themselves, but in the order in which he set them down. First and foremost he named economic reconstruction as the foundation of national and international well-being and stability. Economic co-operation, he made plain, is a foundation stone of peace. Economic hostility is always a basis for war. Unless a man is completely insane, he does not go to war with a good customer or with a tradesman who supplies his foremost needs.

Next in order came adherence to the basic principles of international law. In other words, a nation's word should be as good as its bond, and it should take pride in that attitude.

The third was respect for and observance of treaties. This point is really included in the second, separated from it for the sake of emphasis.

The fourth is voluntary self-restraint: abstention from force and from meddling, settlement of differences by peaceful processes. This calls for positive effort in the maintenance of peace; the "abstention" is not negative but constructive.

Number five suggests that all nations limit and progressively reduce their armament. This they could do if with the first, second and third in practice they could be released from the tension and drive of fear.

Number six asks for collaboration and free intellectual interchange of ideas, with the purpose of promoting better understanding among nations.

Number seven speaks international co-operation in such ways and by such methods as may be practicable for the advancement of this program.

Viewed from the borders bristling with intellectual, emotional and militaristic hostilities, this may sound idealistic and impractical. Viewed from the regions of the great democracies, the seven points are as practical as the maxims of Poor Richard, as simple and sensible as the Golden Rule. Will the nations be able to believe this?

SHEPPARD HEADS PROBE

WASHINGTON — There were titters in the press gallery when Vice President Jack Garner announced the appointment of Senator Morris Sheppard as chairman of the Campaign Expenditures Committee. Some of the boys thought it was a great joke that the gentle, soft-spoken little Texan should be given the tough job of riding herd on electioneering funds.

But the guffaws were unfair to Sheppard. It is true that in manner and personality he is the antithesis of the hard-boiled, whip-cracking prober. But there is nothing soft or weak about him. In his unobtrusive way, Sheppard is one of the most resolute men in Congress.

He has no flair for circus stunting or headlines. No committee he has directed in his many years in public life has indulged in hoop-la stuff. Sheppard is not built that way. He works methodically, deliberately, and with unyielding perseverance.

The Campaign Expenditures Committee will produce no pyrotechnics, but neither will it be a carnival of buffoonery or a stretch of underhand partisan intrigue and skulduggery. The report Sheppard will make next January will be an honorable and forthright statement of facts—as have been his few informal observations to date.

METTLE OF THE MAN

An evaluation of the true mettle of the man can be found in his stand on the prohibition issue.

Sheppard was first elected to the Senate on a prohibition platform. He was the father of the 18th Amendment. He believed in it then and he believes in it now. Regularly, on the anniversary of the Amendment, he rises from his seat in the Senate and in his quiet manner defends the dry cause and predicts its eventual triumph.

And his colleagues listen to him with respect and courtesy. They may question his judgment, but not his sincerity.

Former Senator Jim Reed, unrelenting and vitriolic foe of prohibition, once voiced the views of the Senate toward Sheppard with this observation: "There are only three men in this chamber who really believe in prohibition. One is Senator Wesley Jones (late of Washington), and the other two are Morris Sheppard."

Up for re-election in 1936, at the high tide of repeal, Sheppard's friends begged him to soft-pedal his dry convictions. But he flatly rejected their pleas.

"I am no hypocrite and I won't be one to save my seat," he said. "I'm a dry because I believe in it and not because there are not votes in it."

He campaigned the length and breadth of Texas bluntly affirming his adherence to the dry cause—and was re-elected by the largest majority of his career.

by window, electric fan and seat. There is also a resting place for the waiting line. The staff includes a switchboard operator and an attendant to make change.

The telephone company officials who are responsible for the innovation say it can be used at all sorts of public gatherings, particularly sporting events. Moreover, they expect it to prove very valuable in such emergencies as storms and floods, for it will operate wherever it can be connected with phone lines. It is a leap ahead of the nearest corner drug store.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up and soon about the village to find everyone shouting the praises of a grand and glorious morning. What a difference a few degrees in temperature make. Only a couple of days ago everyone at limp as a rag. Journeyed to the post in leisurely manner, waved at Mayor Bill who was viewing everything calmly from the south door of the city hall, and then returned to the plant.

Wonder how many men and women of these parts studied penmanship under Harp Van Riper? He was quite famous at one time as a penman and still writes better than any youngster I know. And Harp was 88 years old Thursday. Jim Swearingen was 81 Friday. I was 97 for a while Wednesday morning, but recovered somewhat.

Carl Hunter would notice it. Steddom, that remarkably talented photographer of ours, for a week displayed a picture of the scrivener in front of his establishment. A snapshot from an unusual angle taken when Steddom was killing time waiting the arrival of Governor

Davey here for a political talk. My friends thought the picture good, but I didn't. It had the same fault as all pictures of me. They look entirely too much like the subject. Well, the picture now has been changed and in its place is a remarkable picture of a mule. Yes, Carl would notice that and call it to the attention of all who will listen.

Met Arthur Hines, from up Ashville way, he being in the village on business and reporting conditions generally good in his district. Chatted with George Roth, who was on the very tag end of a poll of his precinct and not pleased at all with the preponderance of Democrats. We drank to the success of something or other in Frank Lynch's beverage, George paying the check. Saw Bill Adams carrying a pair of fine fish into the Mecca as gifts to John Carle and Al Thornton. Bill is spending the Summer at his camp on Deer creek. Passed the time of day with Barrister Chris Weldon and waved to Bryan Custer.

Talk of football already in the air and in that division of affairs my interest centers on the Purdue-Ohio game. Did hear great news in that connection.

The Purdue band may accompany the Boilermaker team to Columbus. President Elliott writes that since Purdue does not play Chicago this year and Indiana is playing at Lafayette that it may be possible to send the band to Ohio even though the expense will be something more than $2,000. Many the Ohioans have laughed at me because of my claim that the Purdue band is the best university organization in the nation. I admit the possibility of prejudice, but even so I am not entirely alone in my belief. Now, it appears that the bands may be seen on the same field. And it is likely that after the game few if any opinions as to merit will be changed. But the show will be one of the grandest ever staged in the Buckeye state.

Purdue's band for years and years has made an annual trip to Chicago where its appearance attracted more spectators than the gridiron game itself. I have seen many a capacity crowd at Stagg field rise and cheer as the band moved onto the field. The two best university bands in the world will be pitted against each other at Columbus this Fall. The sight will be worth viewing.

What Do Folk Mean by Term, "Nervousness"?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE TERM "nervousness" is used so frequently to explain some symptom that it has become commonplace, yet it is quite doubtful if many persons could give a clear definition of the term or possess more than the slightest fundamental knowledge of its cause.

To most laymen nervousness means some disease of the nerves, in the sense that the nerves of nervous people differ in some way from those of a placid person. It is doubtful if many have ever thought to inquire in just what manner this difference could be determined.

As a matter of fact, the medical profession is totally unable to determine the slightest difference between the nerves of a nervous person and a placid one.

When the physician says, "Your nerves are upset" or "You are nervous," or "You are on the verge of a nervous breakdown," he does not mean at all that your nerves would show the slightest variation from the normal if examined under the microscope. The term is a misnomer and does not have any direct bearing on nerves at all.

It means that through some cause, which it is the physician's duty to discover if possible, the patient presents certain evidences of unusual agitation or anxiety and through this develops symptoms in various parts of the body. It simply means an abnormal "state of mind" or an overstimulation or activity of the emotional centers, and has nothing whatever to do with organic disease. It is quite the common thing to observe, however, an actual disturbance in the physiology or organs induced entirely through nervous influences.

LYING IN AMBUSH

DID YOU EVER pass the opponent's suit bid because you were loaded to give him trouble and only hoped you could get a crack at him upon a higher level? As he fell for the bait, did you then try to push him still higher by sticking in a supporting bid for one of your partner's suits? If he succumbed to this, soared to new levels and you then came out of your ambush and doubled him, didn't you feel smart and happy? What would become of your joy if your partner then took out the profitable double with a rebid of his own suit, which got doubled and set?

The heart 10 lead immediately drove out East's A, and when he returned a trump, North cashed a heart and offered a club, which South was able to win. The result was East went down one trick.

The score would have been quite different if East had paid attention to his partner's double, realizing that having passed at one stage and later doubled, he probably was simply egging South on. South would have been set three tricks.

CHAPTER 43

THE NEXT thing Noel knew she was taken forcibly to a car, which was soon moving rapidly down the street. A hoarse guttural voice had ordered Noel to sit still and not to speak. The voice had been an unfamiliar one. Noel thought it best to obey.

She was on the back seat of the car alone. There were probably two men, maybe three, on the front seat. All she could recollect of her strange capture was that two men had emerged quickly from the shadows of some trees, one had clapped his hand over her mouth, while the other had taken the child from her arms and quickly tied a cloth around Noel's eyes. What had happened to Betsy? Noel asked herself the question over and over. The only conclusion she could come to was that Betsy had been taken back into the house. Evidently it wasn't the child they wanted, but herself. And yet why should she be abducted?

She suddenly remembered that Ruth Chester had said something about Noel's identity now being generally known. Was that it? Was it known that she was Noel Shayne, instead of Noel Doran, and was she going to be held for ransom?

The car moved faster and faster, and Noel's thoughts almost kept pace with it. She was frightened, but she had not lost her nerve. There would be some way out of this. She would keep her eyes open, that is, if the hateful bandage ever were removed. She would watch every possible avenue of escape.

It was hours, it seemed, before the car stopped. The door was thrown open. The rush of cool air made her feel better. She sat up weakly. "Come on, lady, this is where you get off," she heard in the same guttural voice, belonging to the man who had ordered her to be still.

Noel did not move, however. "Why have you brought me here?" she demanded. "Listen," the guttural voice came back, "I'm not answering questions. I'm giving orders. Come on—get a move on."

Noel still didn't obey. Her thoughts were milling about rapidly. She knew she was helpless in the hands of two, maybe, three unscrupulous, perhaps vicious, men. Possibly there was a gang of them. Noel had read detective stories and she realized that this place to which she had been brought was likely a hideout for the underworld.

A rough hand suddenly grasped her wrist. "Get out, will you? Or am I going to have to pick you up and carry you?"

She decided it would be best to obey this time. "If you'll release my arm, I'll get out," she tried to say in a steady voice.

There was a low voiced conversation between two men. Noel couldn't understand what they were saying. But a minute later the bandage was removed.

She found it very dark and that she could see very little more after the bandage was removed than before. She supposed that was why they had removed it.

In another minute she was holding on to the car, feeling her way carefully until she felt the solid ground under her feet.

Growing more accustomed to the dark, she saw the outline of a house above the tops of trees which seemed almost to surround it. This, of course, was her destination. Once she had entered it, what would happen to her?

She felt the same rough hand reach out and clamp over her arm, forcing her toward the building. She went without resistance, two shadowy shapes following from the rear.

Then she and the man who still held her arm were climbing a short flight of steps, and reached a veranda. Noel stopped and said to her captor desperately, "If you'll let me go, I'll pay you anything—anything."

The only answer was a tighter grip on her arm. The front door of the house was thrown open then. The man loosened his grip slightly, took a small flashlight to guide them up a long flight of stairs.

When they reached the second floor, he opened a door and gave Noel a little push.

She found herself in a dimly light room with heavy red velvet curtains closely drawn at all the windows. The room was furnished in a rather garish fashion. There was a black marble mantel, a number of gilt mirrors, heavy upholstered chairs and divans, and small, very ornate tables. But it was an untidy room badly in need of being aired and dusted.

Noel looked into the heavy face of the man who had brought her here. He was swarthy and he had thick jowls and small, beady, evil eyes. He, too, was looking at Noel and said in his guttural voice, "Didn't know they come like you—both ways. Rich and good-looking."

"Why did you bring me here?" Noel demanded.

The man shrugged. "I'm not the boss."

"Who is?" Noel asked quickly. "That's what a lot of us would like to know." The swarthy man started to the door, where the others were waiting outside. He turned back. "Listen, lady, you'll be comfortable here. Nobody is going to hurt you. That's orders. And you'll get along just as long as you don't try any monkey shins."

He went out then, and Noel heard him turn a key in the lock and then take the key out.

There were cigarettes and cigars on a table. Noel lit a cigarette and sat down to think. It had been a long time since she had smoked. And she thought a cigarette might help to steady her nerves. But she soon crushed it out and walked over to one of the windows, parting the heavy curtains. There was nothing, however, to be seen—nothing but the thick darkness.

She went back and sat down in a chair. Now and then she could hear the shuffle of feet outside the door, and knew there were at least two men on guard out there. Occasionally she could hear them talking in low tones.

On a second thought, she arose again and went and tried the windows. There were five of them, and they were all securely locked. That, of course, was to be expected.

After a long, long time, Noel fell into a troubled sleep on one of the divans.

It was about 8 the next morning when the door was opened and a blond young man came in with coffee and sandwiches. He reminded her of Chris. He had the same comely face, except his hair was quite straight, and he wore it rather long.

He placed the tray on the table and took a chair without speaking. Noel glanced at him. A feeling of confidence was slowly returning. This young man, hardly more than a boy, really did have a kind face. The other man's had been vicious, so she smiled at this man and said: "Thank you for the coffee and sandwiches. I find I am hungry."

He did not answer, did not move his head. "Perhaps you will have some coffee?" Noel asked, determined to make friends with him if there was any possible way.

"Nothing, thank you," he said in a voice that held a trace of breeding.

Noel gave up talking after that, ate part of a sandwich, and drank some of the coffee. When she finished, the young man took the tray, went to the door and handed it to someone outside. Then he came back and silently took his seat.

What did that mean, Noel wondered. Was he going to remain here? She looked at him again and saw that he was lounging more comfortably in the chair and had his long legs crossed.

"You're going to stay?" she asked.

"Yes," he said shortly. Then he added: "You might take a reckless notion to break one of the windows and jump out. Not that it would do you any good. You'd only find yourself with a cracked cranium." His voice was respectful. Then he went on coldly: "And you needn't think you can use any of your wiles on me. I hate your kind."

Try These Recipes

THESE DISHES are calculated to appeal to those who lose their appetite when the weather is warm.

Salads are always welcome, but not always easy to prepare. So give thanks for this whole-meal salad that looks so nice in its green pepper case. Mix together one can chicken (about two cups), one can of corn, one small onion, one can kidney beans (drained), one-half teaspoon salt, one red apple (not peeled), two hard-boiled eggs, one-half cup chopped celery, one-half cup whipping cream, one half cup mayonnaise and juice of one-half lemon. Serve in green pepper case on lettuce bed.

Baked Dish
Green peppers do their share to give flavor to a delicious baked dish. The ingredients include one can golden bantam kernel corn, five green peppers, four medium tomatoes, one-small onion, one tablespoon butter, six green olives, salt and pepper to taste. Cut off tops and remove centers from peppers. Put in hot water and cook slowly for one-half hour. Brown the onions in the butter, add tomatoes and corn and let cook about 15 minutes. Just before removing from fire, add the chopped olives and salt. Stuff the peppers, cover with bread crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in oven until crumbs are well browned.

If you happen to be feeling extravagant and want to provide guests with an especially grand cake, then get to work on this recipe. Get together nine eggs, one and one-half cups each sugar and cake flour, and one teaspoon each cream tartar, orange extract, lemon extract and one-half teaspoon salt. Separate eggs, beat whites stiff with salt and cream of tartar. Add sugar gradually. Beat

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

IF YOU HAVE noticed the foliage of the carrots in your vegetable garden wilt and gradually die, you can be certain the carrot rust fly has been around. Prepare then to "swat" this fly, although, of course, it cannot be swatted in the same way you would a house fly. To "swat" the carrot fly you much take certain control measures.

This fly is very small, greenish in color with red eyes and a yellow head. It lays eggs on the collars of young carrots. As shown in this Garden-Graph, the eggs hatch into legless larvae, one-fourth of an inch long. The larva tunnels through the carrot root. Later, when the larva is full "Swat" the carrot fly grown, it goes into the soil and changes into a pupa, from which in turn, it develops into a fly. There are two broods each year, one in June and another in late September.

Control measures for "swatting" the carrot fly vary. The seedling carrots can be treated with corrosive sublimate (one ounce to 10 gallons of water). The plants and the soil around them should be thoroughly soaked with this mixture for all of two inches on each side of the carrot row. Another method of control requires the sprinkling of crude naphthalene between the rows.

Pioneer Recalls First Trip Through Canyon

By WILLIAM F. TYREE

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP)—Last surviving member of the first expedition into the Grand Canyon by boat is James Fennemore, a spruce old fellow of some 90 years, who sits every day at the Arizona club here to spin his tales of adventure.

The spare, lean-faced Fennemore has had more than his share of adventure in one way or another, but tops the tales he tells by his arduous inland voyage on the Colorado river with Maj. John Wesley Powell.

"It wasn't fun," he said, speaking of the trip through the canyon. "Our clothes were wet for days. We slept beside mud puddles that bred mosquitoes big enough to bite through a Navajo blanket, and we stood in water up to our necks for hours dragging our boats around some of the rapids."

Born in London, Fennemore came to America in 1864, and although he didn't remain long, he came again in 1866 to stay. Like most young men of the day, he saw opportunity in the West.

A photographer by trade, Fennemore came West by working as a driver on a wagon train taking supplies to Fort Bridger, Utah. The wagons were pulled across the plains by oxen.

"Texas longhorns are what they were," said Fennemore, "and wild ones at that."

Forded Platte River

When the going was good the train made seven or eight miles a day. It took four days to get the wagons across the Platte river, using 36 cattle to each wagon.

The train had 30 men with it and was considered fairly safe

Crude Printing Method

A photographer in those days didn't have the easy task he has now. He had to make his wet plates and expose and print them all within five minutes. That meant he had to have a darkroom with him wherever he was.

"I used to get so tired climbing rock walls with my stuff that I'd think I was dying. Then I'd have to set up a collapsible darkroom and crawl inside to roast to death," he recalled.

Fennemore remained with the expedition seven months, going from Lee's Ferry up the Colorado river and into the mouth of the Grand Canyon.

"Every day was an adventure," he said. "We started on Feb. 28 from Salt Lake City and took the stage as far as Toquerville. We outfitted in Johnson's Canyon east of Kanab and set out overland for the Colorado river."

The expedition ran out of supplies in what Fennemore terms the "Henry Mountains." Here they ran onto a band of renegade Indians.

Indians Were Rustlers

"We tried to be friendly," he said, "but they fled the first chance they got. We followed along, hoping their tracks might lead us to a path over a range between us and the river. We ran into a bunch of canyons and found there the skulls and hoofs of hundreds of cattle. No wonder the Indians had run. They had been rustling cattle from the north and had been taking them down there to eat."

The expedition then made its way over the range by digging steps for horses and men in a loamy cliff, Fennemore said.

Once inside the Grand Canyon, Fennemore decided to return to Salt Lake City.

"I went back to my old picture gallery," he said, "but I didn't stay long. I decided I ought to give people around the state a chance to get their pictures taken."

Fennemore constructed a collapsible gallery and loaded it and his paraphernalia on wagons and started out. The gallery and materials took two wagons. It took two days to set it all up and one to get it down. A year and a half later, Fennemore arrived in the booming little town of Beaver.

For the next year and a half he took pictures of the soldiers at Fort Cameron to send to their sweet hearts and also photographed cowboys, miners, prospectors and farmers.

"I have taken at least one picture of nearly every one in the state of Utah," he declared.

The for the next 16 years he operated a photography store and also went into the sawmill business. In 1893 the store burned down.

It was the year of the panic. "It didn't look so good," said Fennemore, "so I decided to take a trip to Europe and rest. I never have gone back to work."

SATURDAY AT GRAND

His enthusiasm for fighting undimmed by a little matter of 38 broken bones and 119 days in bed when his plane crashed during the war, Charles King, as pugnacious as ever, appears as Bob Steele's chief opponent in "Young Blood," the thrilling Monogram western now at the Grand.

Maureen O'Connor, playing opposite Jackie Cooper in "Boy of the Streets," which comes to the Grand Theatre, Sunday, is only fourteen years old, but she has an appealing, sympathetic voice that brought her the title of baby radio star of 1937.

At The Circle

JON HALL and Dorothy Lamour, shown above, are the leading figures in the thrilling South Sea Island drama, "The Hurricane," which begins a two-day run at the Circle theatre, Sunday.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU

BY BOB BURNS

Life is mostly like a game of put and take, only some fellas will take without asking questions but will freeze up when it comes to putting. Grandpa Snazzy, though, isn't one of that kind, he always believed in tit-for-tat.

I remember one time he went into the bank at Van Buren to borrow two hundred dollars to make a deal he had his heart set on. When the banker asked him what security he had, grandpa said, "Two hundred horses." The banker lent him the money.

Later on grandpa came back with a big roll of bills and peeled off two hundred dollars and the interest and paid it to the man and started to put the rest back in his pocket. The banker said, "Why don't you let us keep the rest of the money for you?" Grandpa looked him right in the eye and said, "How many horses you got?"

FAMILY KEEPS FARM IN IOWA FOR 102 YEARS

WAPELLO, Ia., Aug. 20—(UP)

—The Col. L. O. Howard farm, two miles east of here, has been operated by the same family for 102 years, believed to be a record for Iowa.

Originally homesteaded by Levi Stephen in 1836, the farm contains 570 acres, 40 acres of which are in virgin timber.

Col. Howard, a retired railroad executive of Winnetka, Ill., is a son-in-law of Mrs. Charles Blaul of Winnetka, only living descendant of Levi Stephen.

Howard, who breeds horses and dachshund dogs, recalls the time during the World War when a Poland China boar raised on the farm sold for $9,000.

"No hog ever lived that was worth that much, but we took it," he said.

"The farm is just a good, Iowa money-losing farm."

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

There are very few screen shows that can boast of the assortment of swing tunes heard in the new Fred MacMurray comedy, "Cocanut Grove," the new film that comes Sunday to the Cliftona Theatre. Put across by MacMurray, radio songstress Harriet Hilliard, the Yacht Club Boys, Rufe Davis and Harry Owens and his band, they number six in all, and come from the pens of some of Hollywood's better known composers.

Heading the hit parade are "Says My Heart" by Lane and Loesser, and "You Leave Me Breathless" by Fried and Hollander. Harry Owens, who penned last year's hit number one, "Sweet Lullaby," besides appearing in a featured part in the new film, has written two smash new musical hits, "Cocanut Grove" and "Dreamy Hawaiian Moon." Rufe Davis has two comic numbers in the piece, "Two Bits a Pair" and "Ten Easy Lessons" composed by gag man Jack Rock.

In addition to the new tunes, Owens and his band play his "Sweet Lullaby," the number that Bing Crosby popularized in his latest film. Owens, the story goes, wrote the number as a lullaby for his daughter, and it was only when Crosby picked it up and made it popular did he realize that he had a hit on his hands.

AT THE GRAND

A Warner Bros. Cosmopolitan sound crew was at Coarse Gold, Madera County, recently on the most unusual enterprise in the history of Hollywood.

The crew was recording coyote calls for "Gold Is Where You Find It," the melodrama showing at the Grand Theatre Sunday with George Brent and Olivia de Havilland as its stars.

The sound track of the weird howling of the coyotes was to be used as a background for several of the out-door sequences in the picture, which was filmed in Technicolor. It will also be turned over to the Warner Bros. music department for use when the musical score is written.

Claude Rains, one of the stars of the film, asked the studio to make him a wax recording of the coyote howls. He wanted to take it back to his Pennsylvania farm when he finished the picture and scare foxes away from his hen-house and yard.

Other principals in the cast are: Margaret Lindsay, Barton MacLane, Tim Holt and John Litel. The picture was directed by Michael Curtiz, who has directed such triumphs as "Captain Blood" and "Kid Galahad."

SATURDAY AT GRAND

His enthusiasm for fighting undimmed by a little matter of 38 broken bones and 119 days in bed when his plane crashed during the war, Charles King, as pugnacious as ever, appears as Bob Steele's chief opponent in "Young Blood," the thrilling Monogram western now at the Grand.

DEWEY TO CALL SCHULTZ' AIDE FOR TESTIMONY

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(UP)—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey today located in a California prison a bondsman for the late Dutch Schultz who may be returned as a star witness against James J. Hines, Tammany Hall leader on trial charged with having sold political protection to the Schultz lottery mob.

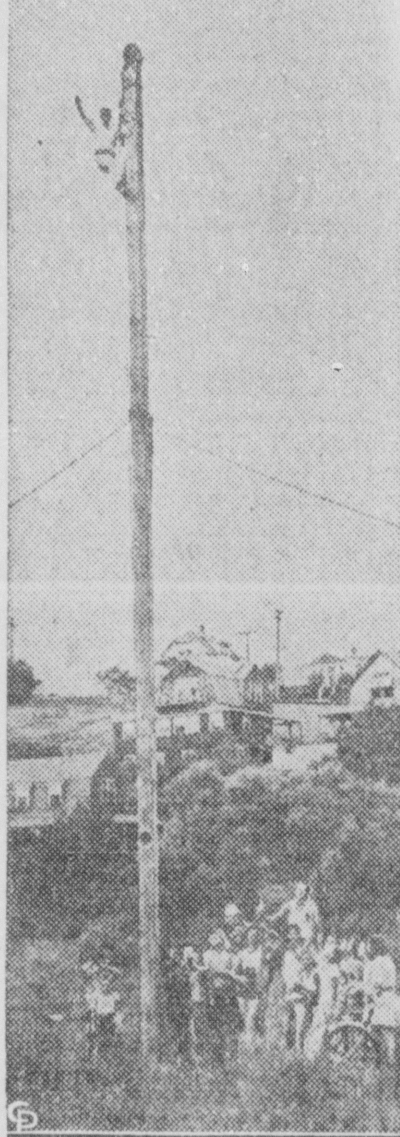

The bondsman, Max Silverman, located through police fingerprint records is serving a term of one to 14 years in San Quentin prison on a bad check charge. His possible entry into the Hines case became a sensation when it was reported that he had conferred with Schultz three hours before that mob leader was slain in a Newark, N. J., saloon in October, 1935, and that at the time Schultz was slain, he was going over the records of his payments for political protection.

Dewey hoped that Silverman might have seen these records during his conference with Schultz.

CAMERA PARTY SHOOTS PLANTS IN SOUTHWEST

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 20.—(UP)—A University of Tulsa biological zoological expedition was training its black-and-white and color cameras on plants and animals in western Oklahoma, seeking to determine the extent and variety of south-western animal and plant life.

Members of the expedition included Dr. H. D. Chase, head of the zoology department; Dr. B. D. Barclay, head of the botany department, and Charles Munsey, junior student majoring in zoology.

The expedition marked the beginning of a five-year program which is expected to result in the most thorough exploration ever attempted into plant and animal life in the various climatic and geographical regions of Oklahoma. University officials revealed that the expedition now underway has been granted full authority to make an extensive collection of all plant and animal life deemed important enough to classify and study.

Chinese Claim Jap Forces Use Poison Gas in Drive

SHANGHAI, Aug. 20.—(UP)—A Chinese official communique charged today that Japanese troops used poison gas to stop a Chinese counter-offensive in the Kiukiang area of the Yangtze river. It was asserted that Chinese attacked at Shaho, south of the river, pierced the Japanese line, captured several hills north of Shaho and reached the outskirts of Kiukiang. The hills were abandoned, the communique said, "when the Japanese resorted to use of poison gas."

The attack was made Thursday, it was asserted. Since then, dispatches showed, the Japanese had landed reinforcements at Kiukiang and resumed a series of attacks designed to break a month-long stalemate.

BRITISH ALARMED BY NAZI PLANE OVER GARRISON

LONDON, Aug. 20.—(UP)—Air ministry officials were reported today to be investigating the flight of an airplane, bearing the Nazi swastika symbol on its fuselage, over the artillery garrison at Shoeburyness on the East coast last night.

The Central News agency reported that a twin motored monoplane bearing the Nazi emblem flew at only 200 feet altitude over the garrison and continued out to sea toward the continent. Garrison authorities were alarmed because the plane was so low, and thought it was going to crash, the agency said. It added that authorities took the identification marks of the plane and forwarded them to the air ministry.

The Daily Herald, organ of the Labor party and anti-Nazi, asserted that the plane was a German Junkers air liner and said that military authorities were disquieted because the plane flew over Shoeburyness garrison, which includes new artillery ranges on Poulness Island and contains a large amount of secret artillery equipment.

ACE FLIES OVER NATION IN LESS THAN 11 HOURS

Dr. Richard Lovelace, of the Mayo foundation, and tested recently on a flight.

Hughes said that "there was less tail wind on this flight than on any flight that I have ever made."

Asked what his average speed was Hughes took out his slide rule and after a second's computation, said he "figured it an average of 238 miles an hour."

Hughes then turned to Harry Connors, who as navigator, accompanied Hughes on the flight, along with Charles Perrine, radio operator, and Glenn Odekrick, copilot, and asked Connors to work out the "official time of the flight and the average speed and everything."

As he had done when he made his record flight around the world in less than four days, Hughes did not announce intentions of trying to break the trans-continental record set four years ago.

Goal Uncertain
The former movie producer quietly ordered his plane filled with gasoline and took off. Airport officials who reported his flight said they did not know whether he would head for Floyd Bennett field in New York, or perhaps would make Newark, N. J., his goal.

Hughes' $250,000 plane has been improved since he made his historic flight last month from New York to Paris, thence around the world. The engines have been adjusted until it was estimated they were capable of rocketing the plane through space at a maximum speed of 245 miles an hour.

For an hour before he disappeared in the East at twilight last night, Hughes and his companions made test hops. Los Angeles airport employees said it was impossible to estimate his speed, although it was evident his trim ship was in perfect shape and ready for a 3,000 mile flight.

ger was stealing her away from me."

"My wife was wrapped around Mrs. Krueger's finger (McDonald continued.) Things reached such a state my wife threatened suicide. I had to shoot this woman, I had to.

"Everything in our life was Mrs. Krueger. We even had to use the same tooth powder she did. I went to Mrs. Krueger and told her my wife was contemplating suicide. I begged her not to interfere with us."

Cross Complaint Filed
Mrs. McDonald recently sued for divorce and McDonald filed a cross complaint accusing her of undue friendliness with another woman, alleged that this unnamed woman "has an abnormal interest in her, which is in conflict to the plaintiff's obligations as a wife toward this defendant."

There was a hearing at which the court ordered McDonald to pay his wife $20 a week pending trial of her suit. She also was given custody of their 23 months old daughter, Emmita, named for Mrs. Krueger. It was Mrs. McDonald's testimony at this hearing to which McDonald referred.

Hollywood boulevard was crowded with its usually late afternoon throngs yesterday. Witnesses saw a woman walk rapidly across the street, then stop and turn to face the man with whom she had been talking. He snatched a pistol from his pocket and fired. One bullet struck her in the chest, another in the arm, another in the leg. She collapsed and he jumped into a car waiting at the curb and sped away.

Witnesses wrote down the license number. Police went to McDonald's home to arrest him. He wasn't there, but an hour later Attorney William Bronsten, who had acted for McDonald in his divorce suit, telephoned that his client wished to surrender.

Story Related
McDonald first insisted that he knew nothing of the shooting except what he had read in newspapers. Bronsten reminded him that he had surrendered to him a .38 caliber automatic pistol and had told him a different story. Whereupon, McDonald broke down and said he had waited outside the expensive apartment hotel where the Kruegers live until Mrs. Krueger came out to call at a dancing school for her eight year old daughter, Theresa. She drove off in her car and he followed.

"She pulled up to the curb and I drew alongside her," he said. "I asked her, 'where are my wife and baby?'"

"She got out of the car and said she was going to call police. I
